

The Leaking Truth

15th Post - Goals aka my Bio Page summary

March 05, 2024

Our major goal here is to get the truth out, period. Facts matter along with my timeline here and 100% honesty is the critical element to all of this, it makes me a good person, right? Knowing that I'm a good person admitting honesty to myself is fundamental to my core of what makes me, me. Integrity with 100% is a value that I hold true to my heart and believe in which leads to respect. I don't expect 100% respect from people that's a fact statistically given numbers and math, you can't make 100% everyone happy 100% of the time, that's just math and people in general. But, being honest, keeping your integrity in check is something I feel people in general would find "respectable" coming from a good person with their intent in the right place, that's just generalizing feelings from others psychologically as a whole but I think you see already where I'm going with that. This is all personal courage an army value that I am showing here with this blog and even in writing this post in digging into my beliefs and where I stand with everything that's going on in my mind, making a statement like this probably will come up later along the timeline at some point so it's worth writing about I think? I seriously tell it like it is and keep to the facts because I literally don't have the time to waste let alone the energy to weave a tangled web of lies to keep track of, it's too hard to do that in my books, the easiest thing in the world is to just tell the truth, like it happened in a very matter of fact type way wheatear the fact is positive or negative, sticking to the truth in some ways feels better to the psyche because you know you did the right thing. It's good for the mental health I think in some ways because as I was raised knowing and I was told "the truth always comes out" and usually it's only a matter of "time" before it happens, so I hold that true to my heart and it keeps me mentally going strong here and honestly will only make me a stronger person in the end when everything is all said and done. The poem "The Dash", it is a poem that makes you question what did you do with your dash? I at least want to say I did the right thing in respects to my dash and respect for my mind that I have been given to walk with on this earth with. At some point in time we all will have to deal with our dashes, that's a personal thing we each have to accept and live with knowing, forever as far as I understand in this moment of time. My "chatter" that I deal with knows all this about me so this in some sense is a way of documenting this somewhere because I know somehow later it's going to come up, it's a matter of time. My goal is to show my path taken from the 7th dimension to clear up this whole FOIA issue with the CIA and whatever crap is being manufactured and abused with my mind somehow and stashed abroad allegedly given the FOIA laws and how they work within a country, I will not stand for being mentally abused and publicly lied about and if I can find others who are in a similar position to what is happening here to me I will do everything I can to help them out somehow, someway. If you look at your hand you will see your 5 fingers, each holding a different path you can take in the very moment your in, I guess that's one way of reinforcing the fact you have free will and not some destiny unless you count your fingers as destined paths... I guess it's all in how you look at it and the perspective you hold in the moment I guess. Reality is technically you have unlimited fingers and unlimited paths and possibilities and outcomes to the paths you can take with your life. So basically what I'm saying here is I'm sticking to the truth 100%, it makes me feel good knowing I'm doing the right thing and keeps me mentally in check with the chatter going on because someday it's all going to matter big time and possibly even this post might be referenced to hence me writing it to begin with, but it also is the Bio to my blog here as simple as it is. Now you know where I stand in all this and know I'm a good person here behind the screen your reading this from and I thank you if you read it all. Your welcome.
